#VOTECAPEXIT 2024

The Committee for The Cape Republic

Dear {{ contact.FIRSTNAME | default : "Supporter" }},

30 years ago today, 27 January 1994, a newspaper called the Cape Argus published the above advert.

A civic organisation by the name of the 'Committee for the Cape Republic' made an impassioned appeal to the public to sign their petition and pressurise the government to give the people of the Cape a referendum on Cape independence.

Since that day the full page newspaper advert was published, the Cape and its people have suffered much.

Did the people reading the advert that day understand what was on offer, or what was at stake?

Do people today understand what is on offer, or what is at stake?

Perhaps it is the inevitable turning of the pages of history that must give feeling to thought, sound to words, and colour to sight, before an event whose time must come, comes.

30 years later the calls for independence are louder than ever. The Cape's day of independence is coming.

Here's to those who came before us.

We wish to thank all those who have volunteered getting involved actively, registered membership, volunteered to stand as candidates, submitted their signatures as per the new IEC requirements and have made donations to help share the financial burden, and would like to invite our supporters to take action via the buttons below.
